College Men Hope That Peace Will Reign Again Between Thom -News of the Ponneytvania and Tale Crows-Procident N. E. Toung's Duties -- Troubles of the Baseball Players

The announcement that negotiations are under way for the arrangement of a baseball series between Princeton and Pennsylvania has been received with a feeling of satisfacion among college men. If the series become a reality, it is believed that it will not be very long before the two universities will meet on the football field again. Indeed, TER BUE has been informed that Pennsylvania he already made overtures unofficially for a renewal of football relations with the rigers. Harvard's determination to stick the Quakers and to sever even baseball relations with Princeton has left the Tigers with only one powerful rival—Yale—so far with only one powerful rival—Yale—so far an extra state of the big four is concerned. Princeton and Pennsylvania are natural rivals, geographially, and when they indulged in annual tissles in various branches of sport there was always widespread interest. During the past two years there has been a growing friendliness between the two universities, friendliness between of peace.

But the graduates are more deliberate, and Princeton's Faculty Athletic Committee must be consulted before any definite conclusion may be arrived at. Since the football games between the Quakers and Tigers were stopped after the football battle at Trenton in 1884, both have forfeited big receipts. Had it not been for Princeton's game with Columbia here last fall, there might have with Columbia here last fall, there might have been a narrow squeeze for the Princeton management because of the additional existence of erecting the big stands for the game with Yale. Should Princeton and Pennsylvania arrange a football game, it would probably be played on neutral grounds, in which event Columbia University would make a strong bid to secure the match for this city. The conditions under which a new alliance in sports could be formed would in all probability include eligibility rules which, if endired, would preclude the possibility of a misunderstanding such as caused the breach man, 114. with Columbia here last fall, there might have in sports could be formed would in all probability include eligibility rules which, if enforced, would preclude the possibility of a misunderstanding such as caused the breach between these institutions. The football game of 1894 contained many unpleasant incidents, but as all of the men who participated in it have graduated, much of the ill feeling has disappeared. It will take considerable time to heal the breach, however, but when amicable relations have been restored there will be unbounded rejoicing in the college world.

the college world.

Coach Ellis Ward is getting ready to begin work on what he hopes will be another champion Pennsylvania crew. He is preparing the room on Franklin Field for the reception of candidates the second week in January. In view of the large supply of green material Ward will not put the regular members of last year's crew through their paces before the first of February. The 'Varsity eight lost three men by graduation last June-Shover, Stehle and Kintzing. These places will be hard to fill. The five men left. Stroke Gardiner, Capt. Flickir, Davenport, Allyn and Crowther, are all heavier and stronger than last year and should form a fine nucleus for the 61 crew. Among the most promising men for the three vacancies are W. Gardiner, Eisenbrew and Hildebrand, of last year's freshman crew. Manager A. H. Richardson of the Yale Navy and Manager Fisher of the Annapolis Naval Academy crew have arranged a race beween Yale's second eight and the 'Middles,' to be rowed on May 11, either on the James River or on the Severn. The Yale crew will be chosen rather earlier in the season than usual, owing to Capt. Blagden's desire to induce crew work. Those who will have seats in the beat will be the first substitutes. The gymnasium is being refitted with tanks used for practice, and the new candidates will be called soon aiter Jan. 10. Head Coach Allen will not have charge of the men until the useless material has been weeded out.

President N. E. Young of the National leigue, whose job several ambitious persons would like to have, has held his present position for thirty-one years. His duties are arduous, yet he has stood the strain with fortitude. At all League meetings "Uncle Nick" sets as Secretary. He jots down the points at issue and is made custodian of every document of importance. Every player's contract, when signed, must be approved and promulgated by Mr. Young, who receives and sends out the official reserve lists of every league under the protection of the National Agreement. The official batting, fielding, pitching and base running averages are compiled by "Uncle Nick," who receives daily the scores in full of every National League game, to be placed on file. This line of work alone entsils long I bor and a world of close figuring. The legues finances, in the shape of every club's percent ge from the gates to defray expenses, are hundled by Young. Last year he had $80,000 to look out for, and his accounts balanced to the penny. As chairman of the National Board Mr. Young must receive all protests from minor leagues and get them ready for trial. He also has to prepare all cases for the Board of Directors.

Another difficult piece of work is the drafting of the playing schedule. Mr. Young has eight big cities to satisfy, and he does the best he can. To arrange a schedule of the playing schedule. The ball players, members of the Protective Association, have received an official communication from the leaders, Taylor, Zimmer, Griffith and Jennings, advising them of the action of the National League in turning down their demands and asking them to refrain from signing contracts for the present at least. In the communication it is intimated that in due time the present form of League contract may be approved, which is taken to mean that if the players find that the American League lacks financial strength, there are league lacks financial strength. oan League lacks financial strength, there will be a general collapse of the Protective Association. It is freely predicted that when the players feel the need of advance house they will throw sentiment to the winds.

Stere L'Hommedien. NEW ORLEANS Dec. 81 .- Form players had another bad day at the Fair Grounds this afternoon. Only two first choices managed to pass the post first and as they were at prohibitive prices the talent gained ittle by the victories. A story was current at the track to-day that the reason that Steve L'Hommedieu left flot Springs so suddenly was due to the arrival of Robert Davis, a New York poolroom operator, who went to the Springs on learning of Steve's phenomenal winnings, to collect $29,900 worth of markers that he has against the plunger. It is also said that L'Hommedieu lost the money in Davis's poolroom last May. L'Hommedieu was seen at the track this afternoon but claimed he was too busy to talk, but neither confirmed or denied the story. Bummary:

Paris has borrowed the Madison Square Garden idea, and a coterie of promoters have arranged a six-day race there to be held the last week in January and the first week in February. It will not be a team race, but one of the old-fashioned "plugging" kind, wherein every man will do the best he can for six days and six nights. The idea of the American promoters has been further encroached upon by the engagement of a string of American riders to go over with a guarantee of expenses and what they can win. The men engaged are picked from the best six-day riders. They are Charles Miller, Louis Gimm, Charles Turville, Burns Pierce and Archie McEachern. These men will be under the management of Tom Eck. The whole thing is the result of the study of American methods by Robert Coquelle of the Paris Le Velo.

COMMITTER PINDS NO FRAUD. Players to a Fake Water Pole Game

Exenerated. An alleged investigation of the fake water polo game last March between the New York A. C. and Knickerbocker A. C., which was the Registration Committee of the Metropoli-tan Association of the A. A. U. at the Astor House last night. After an apparently friendly exchange of opinions between the committee and the captains of the teams, which lasted less than an hour, the committee handed down the following remarkable de-

The Registration Committee exonerates the mem bers of the Knickerbocker A. C. and New York A. C. eater polo teams from any attempt at fraud. There was no evidence to prove that an unfair game was played or a game that would allow any inferior team

From the moment that the members of the committee, W. M. Brittain, M. Flynn and C. Sullivan, arrived it was evident that the investigation would be a farce, but it was scarcely expected that the committee would by its action indorse the playing of the championship contest, which it was admitted by all concerned was not carried out on its merits all concerned was not carried out on its merita. The captains of the two teams. Gil Johnson, N. Y. A. C., and W. Reuss, K. A. C., differed considerably as to the details, the New York A. C. man explaining that it was arranged at Boston, while Reuss declared that he knew nothing of it until ten minutes before the game began. Johnson held that the fault lay with the men other than the players, namely, an official of the New York A. C., whom he said was cognizant of the arrangement, and the managers of the sports on whom he said it devolved to announce that the game was simply an exhibition one and not for the Metropolitan championship.

The excuse offered by Chairman Brittain for the extraordinary ruling was that the Knickerbockers would have won any way and that therefore no one was defrauded.

The decision is at variance with the feeling of the N. Y. A. C. Athietic Committee, which considered the circumstances sufficient immediately to disband the team and also prevent the temporary chairman of the Water Polo Committee, W. G. Douglas, from wearing the club colors in the A. A. U. swimming championships.

It has been the custom in all previous investigations made by Registration committees to call the men summoned before them separately, examine them and exclude them from the room while the evidence is being examined and a decision rendered. Lass night it was simply a conference. The two captains were present the whole time. The captains of the two teams, Gil Johnson, Final Bonts in International Tourney at Grand Central Palace.

The final bouts of the international wrestling tournament were decided last night at the Grand Central Palace. The attendance was disappointing in view of the excellent sport offered, scarcely more than 500 persons being present. Only three bouts were wrestled. The conditions of the semi-finals were that a victor must be chosen in twenty-five minutes, fifteen minutes allowed on the first attempt and ten minutes in the second. In the finals the bouts were the best two out of three falls, being limited to fifteen minutes. Charley White was referee.

White was referee.

First came the lightweight division. Harvey Parker of Brockton, Mass, had to tackle two mea. His first opponent in the semi-final was George Bothner, the Pastime A. C. craok.
Bothner scaled 133 pounds, while Barker tipped the beam at the limit, 138 pounds.
The twain kept at each other all the time,
and their efforts were interesting. There was no fall Parker forced matters after the interval and received the award. Parker's final bout was with Harry Pickinsky of this gity. The former won the first bout, although he did not throw his man. Pickinsky did a lot of spurting in the next bout, and the referee was compelled to keep the men on the mat.
Pickinsky used foul tactics repeatedly. He managed to stay fifteen minutes, however,
but lost the verdict.

In the heavyweight division, owing to the unexpected withdrawal of Leo Pardello, John Piening, the "Butcher Boy," and August
Faust, of Germany, a pupil of Ernest Roeber, were the only ones left. The men were evenly matched in point of science and strength, but Piening was in the better shape. He pinned Faust to the mat in twelve minutes in his first attempt. The second time Faust held his man off for fifteen minutes. In the final essay Piening was aggressive and had no trouble in securing the verdict. Sum-First came the lightweight division. Harvey

No Bloomers for Flushing Girls Who Play Basketball.

The Flushing High School girls when they play basketball in the future will wear short skirts and not bloomers, as the girl teams of the Metropolitan High School leagues do. Miss Katharine M. Peck, physical director Miss Katharine M. Peck, physical director of the Flushing school, has decided that roint. She says that she approves heartily of tennis and basketball games for young women students, but not when they are played in bloomers. She recommends a short skirt coming just below the knee and says that the appearance of young women clad in bloomers scrambling over a gymnasium floor, especially when they fall in a heap on the ball, is anything but what it ought to be. Further, if the young women of the school apply for places on the team they must bring a certificate from their family physician and slao the written consent of their parents to indulge in the pastime. All must live up to the conditions or they will not be permitted to play in the league or any other match games that the team engages in.

MONTREAL, Dec. 21 .- The new boxing law has given to the sporting fraternity of Canada and the United States the idea that It was promoters of prize fights to "pull off" limited promoters of prize fights to "pull off" limited bouts between shining lights of the prize ring. Even should this be the case, it will hardly prove successful. The idea seems to be that a new amateur athletic club will be formed with a big auditorium of a seating capacity for several thousand persons, where so-called limited-round contests could take place. But the representative of Jim Jefries, who opens at the Theatre Royal here next week, eave that such permission by the authorities would be of little use, for the expense of pulling off big contests at Ottawa would be too great. The preliminary costs, such as training quarters, &c., amount to about $4,000 and the trainers' fee from $1,000 to $1,500. This amount could not be realized because of the city's geographical location.

Sharp competitions were witnessed yesterday at Dexter Park, Brooklyn, where the Jeannette Rod and Gun Club held its monthly contest at live birds. The pigeons were a fine let of fivers and were aided by an easterly wind, which sent them along fast. Dr. John P. Kay, a guest, made the only clean score of the day. Summaries:

ANOTHER CUP DEFENDER,

TO RE BUILT OF WOOD AND HAVE A CENTREBOARD. Hanley Agrees to Turn Out a Craft for a Syn-

878.000 to Build and Maintain for a Season Secrecy About the Lawson Boat. Boston, Dec. 21.-Boston, the home of the entreboard yachts, will probably be represented in the trial races for the selection of a defender of the America's Cup by a boat distinctly of that type. The statement that a syndicate is being formed to build an oldtime wooden centreboard sloop to go against the keel boats caught the yachtsmen in this vicinity unawares, and while they are greatly delighted with the prospect all seem to be decidedly "at sea." Never before in the history of Cup races has there been so much excitement in this city over the yacht racing outlook, and every one, even Designer Crowninshield, seems tickled with the idea of pitting a craft of the old school against the American version of the English "plank on edge" cutter. C. C. Hanley of the Hanley Construction Company of Quincy, builders of many fast yaohte, among them the American sloop Genesee, which so successfully defended the Canadian cup last year at Chicago and Toronto, is the man who has entered the lists against Herreshoff and Crowninshield and will try to produce something in the way of a so-footer. The yacht is to be a regulation centreboard craft, with no outside ballast, to be built of wood, and is estimated to cost in the neighborhood of $75,000 to construct and maintain up to the end of the season. Hanley said to-day that while he had no desire to conceal the fact that a syndicate was being formed with every prospect of success, any discussion of details at this time would be premature. He says that several men are ready to build and enter a centreboard yacht in the international contest, believing that it will outsailing keel boat in the class that can be built. He argues that a boat with wooden frames and planking and carrying a wooden mast is infinitely better than one constructed entirely of metal, for than one constructed entirely of metal, for the reason that a wooden craft is springy, and consequently more lively than a metal boat, which, on account of its rigidity, butts its way through the water.

"There is not a small keel boat to-day that has not been or cannot be beaten with a centreboard of the same sailing length," said Hanley. "This has been proved by the performances of the cup defender Genesee last year at Chicago and Toronto, when she had no difficulty in defeating the keel boat of English design built to take away the Canada cup. Boston yachtsmen are familiar with the victories of the Meemer, Ashumet, Thordis and other centreboard yachts over the pick of the fleets of Herreshoff keel design in both Boston and New York waters. These and the Harbinser, Almira, Hermes, Areyto, Privateer, Omene, Achushia, Windora and Little Peter have all defeated keel boats of the Same class. The Thordis, the first of the Meemer type, won eighteen firsts in eighteen races.

first of the Meemer type, won eighteen firsts in eighteen races.

The Acushia met all the best 30-footers in New York and defeated them easily in light airs and squalls. Hemember, that all these were centreboard boats. Now, if we take this developed contreboard type and enlarge it to 90 feet, with such modifications as are essential in a large boat, we shall have similar results. The 60-foot centreboard will be faster on every point of sailing than the 90-foot keel. She will be faster in light winds or in heavy winds, and she will not cost a fortune, because she is not held up by nearly one hundred tons of lead, the market value of which every one knows. one hundred tons of lead, the market value of which every one knows.

"Our candidate for the trial races will be of wood throughout," continued the builder. We believe that such a boat will be just as fast for all practical purposes as she would be were she built of bronze and steel. She will have a wood frame and double planking, and when her racing days are over she can be easily turned into a comfortable schooner that will not draw so much water that she cannot come up Boston harbor except at high tide."

and in each succeeding round the New Yorker kept pounding away at the injured nasal organ. In the second round McDermott had a gash cut over his left eye and was sent to the floor. He took the full count before facing his opponent again. In the sixth round Thomas again knocked the Jerseyman to the floor, the result of a savage blow on the left side of the jaw.

When the eighth round opened it was apparent that McDermott could last but little longer. He was groggy and weak, while Thomas was without a mark. During the eighth McDermott was knocked down four times, the gong saving him from defeat in that round. When the ninth round began Thomas had but little trouble in flooring him again when McDermott's seconds threw up the sponge and the battle was at an end.
